

This session is designed to provide an overview of recent laws, regulations, investigations and settlements affecting research (clinical and otherwise) over the last year. The session will cover certain "best practices" among universities and academic medical centers in the conduct of research throughout the United States as implications for global research. Some of the topics to be addressed include updates to MSP laws and regulations that affect billing for research related injuries, updates (and proposed updates and OIG guidance) on conflicts of interest, implications of the Sunshine provisions of PPACA on research sites and investigators, and much more.

Participants in this session will leave with a better understanding of the legal, regulatory and best practice trends in clinical research.
